wabi-sabi (侘び寂び)

Drawing inspiration from traditional Japanese aesthetics, wabi-sabi (侘び寂び) embraces the beauty of imperfection and the transient nature of life. This design philosophy, often associated with rhythm and simplicity, is deeply connected to nature. The GUJI collections are characterized by clean lines, natural color palettes, and a minimalist style

Wabi-Sabi (侘び寂び)

The Wabi-Sabi philosophy guiding the GUJI collections aims to create a Zen-like atmosphere, aligned with seven key design principles

Kanso (簡素) Simplicity

Fukinsei (不均整) Asymmetry or Irregularity

Shizen (自然) Natural

Shibumi (渋味) Simple beauty

Yugen (幽玄) subtle grace

Datsuzoku (脱俗) escaping from habits

Seijaku (静寂) tranquillity, stillness or solitude

The GUJI collections are named by the principles:
Engineered oak floors: Shibumi, Shibumi-Oki and Wabi-Sabi.

Hybrid floors: Yugen and Seijaku.

Laminate floors: Kanso.

Introducing the expanded SHIBUMI collection, now available in a larger plank version designed for a more striking and refined aesthetic. These engineered oak floors feature planks that are longer, wider, and thicker, providing a grander and more elegant look. The planks can be secret nailed, offering a cost-effective installation alternative to fully glued systems. Additionally, the generous 6mm thick solid timber veneer allows for multiple sanding over the years, ensuring your floors remain beautiful and resilient. This larger plank version combines the enduring quality and natural beauty of the SHIBUMI collection with enhanced functionality and style.

Embracing Wabi-Sabi Through the Natural Beauty of Timber Flooring

Wabi-sabi celebrates the imperfect and transient nature of the world, and GUJI engineered oak floors, with its natural grains, knots, and subtle variations, captures this philosophy beautifully. Each plank of timber tells a unique story of the forest, highlighting the passage of time and the beauty of imperfection. This connection to the natural environment not only brings warmth and character to a space but also evokes a sense of harmony and tranquillity. By embracing the authenticity and natural wear of timber flooring, we honour the essence of wabi-sabi, creating spaces that are serene, grounded, and in tune with the natural world.

Care & Maintenance Summary

GUJI Timber Flooring stays beautiful with proper care.

1. Routine Maintenance:

- Vacuum, mop, or sweep weekly. Use a damp cloth mop with pH-neutral cleaner; avoid excess water or harsh chemicals.
- Do not use steam mops, steel wool, or wax.
- Use a vacuum with a brush head and clean spills promptly with a dry cloth. For stubborn stains, use a damp cloth with a pH-neutral cleaner.
- Use drip pans under plants, maintain indoor temperatures between 17°C-23°C, and avoid heating systems with floating installations.

2. Preventative Maintenance:

- Use mats at entrances and under heavy items. Trim pet nails and use floor protectors. Avoid walking on the floor with high heels or shoes in need of repair. Keep sharp objects and hot materials away.
- Block direct sunlight with curtains or UV film. Avoid rubber-backed rugs and non-breathable mats. Clean spills promptly and avoid foods and drinks that may stain.
- Do not use steam mops or excess water. Maintain indoor humidity between 45%-60% and protect the floor from extreme temperature changes.

3. Fix Dings and Scratches:

- Repair minor scratches with a matching color staining pen. Use putty and stains for deeper scratches. Test repair kits on a less visible area first. For severe damage, replace the planks.

Common Characteristics of Timber Floors

GUJI Timber Flooring is crafted from natural materials, resulting in variations in color, texture, and inherent features between individual pieces and batches. Samples and reproductions in print or photography serve as a general guide for color, but may not fully represent the overall appearance or design of the flooring.
