wabi-sabi (侘び寂び)

Drawing inspiration from traditional Japanese aesthetics, wabi-sabi (侘び寂び) embraces the beauty of imperfection and the transient nature of life. This design philosophy, often associated with rhythm and simplicity, is deeply connected to nature. The GUJI collections are characterized by clean lines, natural color palettes, and a minimalist style

Wabi-Sabi (侘び寂び)

The Wabi-Sabi philosophy guiding the GUJI collections aims to create a Zen-like atmosphere, aligned with seven key design principles

Kanso (簡素) Simplicity

Fukinsei (不均整) Asymmetry or Irregularity

Shizen (自然) Natural

Shibumi (渋味) Simple beauty

Yugen (幽玄) subtle grace

Datsuzoku (脱俗) escaping from habits

Seijaku (静寂) tranquillity, stillness or solitude

The GUJI collections are named by the principles:
Engineered oak floors: Shibumi, Shibumi-Oki and Wabi-Sabi.

Hybrid floors: Yugen and Seijaku.

Laminate floors: Kanso.

Hybrid Care & Maintenance Summary

GUJI Hybrid Flooring is low-maintenance, but following these guidelines will keep it looking great:

Routine Maintenance

- Cleaning: Vacuum, sweep, or mop weekly. Use a cloth-covered mop with a pH-neutral cleaner. Avoid excess water and soap, oil, ammonia, wax, bleach, or vinegar.
- Avoid: Steam mops, steel wool, and wax/polish. Use a vacuum with a brushed head and no beater bar. Wipe spills immediately with a clean, dry cloth to prevent stains.
- Stains: Spot clean with a damp cloth and pH-neutral cleaner. Use drip pans for indoor plants and maintain indoor temperatures between 18°C – 30°C.

Preventative Maintenance

- Scratches & Dents: Use mats at entrances and under heavy furniture, trim pet nails, use floor protectors, and avoid walking with high heels or on sharp objects.
- Discoloration: Avoid direct sunlight and rubber products. Use curtains or UV films for large windows.
- Expansion & Shrinkage: Keep spills cleaned, maintain indoor humidity between 35%-55%, and regulate indoor temperature to prevent gaps.

Repairs

- Minor Damage: Use furniture scratch cover oil for small scratches. Test repair kits on a hidden area first. For severe damage, consider replacing planks; sanding is not recommended.

Characteristics

- Natural Behavior: Hybrid floors may expand or shrink with climate changes, causing small gaps. This is normal and not a defect.

Please note: Swatches are for color reference only. Please expect variations in color and grain compared to images and samples.

Laminate Care & Maintenance Summary

GUJI Laminate Flooring is low-maintenance; with a few precautions and regular cleaning, your floor will remain in excellent condition.

Routine Maintenance

- Cleaning: Regularly vacuum, sweep, or mop with a cloth-covered mop and pH-neutral cleaner. Avoid excess water and harsh cleaners (soap, oil, ammonia, wax, bleach, vinegar).
- Avoid: Steam mops, steel wool, wax, or polish. Use a vacuum with a brushed head and no beater bar. Clean spills immediately with a dry cloth to prevent stains. Use drip pans for indoor plants and keep temperatures between 18°C – 30°C.

Preventative Maintenance

- Scratches & Dents: Use mats in high-traffic areas, trim pet nails, and use furniture protectors. Avoid walking with high heels and sharp objects. Do not let hot materials like cigarettes damage the floor.
- Discoloration: Minimize sunlight exposure and avoid rubber products that may discolor the floor. Use breathable rugs to prevent moisture accumulation.
- Expansion & Shrinkage: Wipe spills promptly, maintain humidity between 35%-55%, and control indoor temperatures to prevent gaps.

Repairs

- Minor Damage: Use a matching color stain pen or putty for minor scratches. For severe damage, consider replacing planks. Avoid sanding laminate floors.

Characteristics

- Natural Behavior: Laminate floors may expand or shrink with extreme temperature changes, causing small gaps (up to 0.15% of the floor's length/width). This is normal and not a defect.
